When students do poorly in my classes, it is invariably because they did not read the material or complete major assignments. All of the reading and most of the homework, major tests and compositions are listed on the syllabus.

For this course you need a separate 3-ring binder and a supply of loose leaf paper.

All work is due on the date assigned. Meeting deadlines and keeping up with assignments is important. Late work will not receive full credit.

If a class is not held for any reason, all assignments or tests scheduled for that day will be due or given on the next class meeting.

All reading assignments are subject to pop quizzes. Pop quizzes may also be given on material previously presented to the class.

Attendance is important. It is difficult for students to master material if they are not in class.

A copy of this syllabus is posted on the school's website.
